Scots score in Academic SuperBowl

By GREGORY FANNING

Highland High School students placed third and fourth in two Hoosier Academic Super Bowl categories in Indianapolis Saturday.

Highland's science team, composed of Mike Barclay, captain; Scott Louderback and Ben Schott, placed third in the state behind champion North Central and runner-up Michigan City Rogers.

The school's fine arts squad, composed of Tammy Irwin, captain; Jenny Hummel and Shawn Ramsey, placed fourth behind champion Merrillville, runner-up Southport and Columbia City.

Highland actually tied Columbia City after 20 regular questions but settled for fourth after five tie-breaker questions were considered.

"I'm pleased with their performance and would have been no matter what they did," said Linda Trout, who coached the Highland academic teams with Jim Beane. She added, "Some of the students were a little upset with themselves because they said they knew more of the answers. But, that's hindsight."

Highland had to beat out 70 schools in Class 1 (enrollments of 1,080 or more) to qualify for the state competition, which was in the Warren Performing Arts Center in Warren Central High School.

Nation's weather runs gamut

By The Associated Press
More than 20 cities in the Northeast sweltered in record high temperatures Saturday, snow fell in the West and parts of the Plains, and the South continued to get pelted with thunderstorms that brought high winds and hail.

Watches for tornadoes and severe thunderstorms were posted for much of the South Saturday evening. Thunderstorms at Lenox, Ala., produced hail a half-inch in diameter, and gusty winds knocked down a few trees. Hail also fell near Jonesboro, Ga., and at Fayetteville, Ga.

Winds gusted to 68 mph and three-quarter-inch diameter hail fell at Columbus, Ga. Snow resulted in the closing of several roads inside Yellowstone National Park. Three inches of snow covered the airport at Kalispell, Mont., and 4 to 6 inches of snow were reported north of Jackson, Wyo.

Overnight snowfall from 2 to 6 inches in eastern North Dakota.

At noon Saturday, rain and thunderstorms extended from the western Carolinas across eastern Georgia to southern Florida, from Kentucky across southern Illinois, southeast Missouri, Tennessee, northern Mississippi, Alabama and northwest Georgia.

Showers reached from northern Illinois across Wisconsin through east-central and northwest Minnesota, as well as the Nebraska Panhandle, northern Utah and northeast Nevada, from south-central Wyoming to north-central Wyoming, and along the Oregon coast.

Meanwhile, the death toll from three days of storms and flooding in Texas last week rose to six, with the discovery of two victims. The bodies of two men who were washed off a road near Sunray in north-central Texas on Wednesday were recovered from 13 feet of water.

Snow fell in the Idaho Panhandle, and parts of Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas and Minnesota. One low temperature record for the date was broken, too. In Omaha, Neb., the mercury plummeted to 30 degrees, breaking the 32-degree record set in 1965, and tied in 1979 and 1986.

The nation's low temperature Saturday, was 19 degrees at Minot, N.D. Temperatures at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 24 degrees at Cutbank, Mont., to 95 at Imperial, Calif.

The forecast for today called for a band of showers from Arizona to Minnesota, and snow flurries in Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota.
