

Newlyweds Are Making Home In Empire

In a wedding in St. Anthony's Catholic church, West Vancouver, British Columbia, Feb. 4, Miss Doreen Elizabeth Rathje, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Rathje of Vancouver, became the bride of Frank Willis Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ballard of Empire. The young couple is now at home at 435 N. Main St., Empire.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Foran at 11:30 a.m.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white cotton open-embroidery and lace frock with fitted bodice designed ballerina length. Her flowers were deep red roses and white feathered carnations.

Sister Is Attendant

Miss Frances Rathje was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Owen Richards was the bridesmaid. They wore identical frocks of red velveteen with matching caps and carried white fur muffs on which red roses were pinned.

Terry Rathje, a niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Patrick Rathje, a brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Leo St. Cyr and Owen Richards.

After the reception which followed the service, Mr. and Mrs. Page went to Vancouver Island for their honeymoon. For traveling the bride changed to an olive green suit dress. With it she wore a matching hat, beige topcoat and lizard shoes and purse.
