PLYMOUTH COUNTY WILL BE SERVED BY NEW POWER LINE

Electricity From Fort Randall Plant To Serve Rural Area

Clearing work is expected to begin in two weeks as the construction of the first major electric transmission lines begins for Northwest Iowa Power Co. Op.

Richard Orlando, of Orlando Construction Co., Coleman, Wis., said that his crew will start unloading equipment and materials during the week of July 26. During the following week, August 3, the clearing of brush and trees will begin, the contractor estimated.

The 69,000 volt line will start at a point near Hinton, where the Bureau of Reclamation will erect a sub-station to dump power from Fort Randall. The line will go through Plymouth, Cherokee and into Ida county, stretching about 87½ miles in the first leg of a transmission system, which will include all of northwest Iowa.

This initial line is known technically as tap 4-A according to Robert Risch, Right-of-way Chief for NIPCO and will end up at a point near Ida Grove. Bertel Brown and C. E. Lorenzen, NIPCO directors from Plymouth and Ida Counties, join with Alfred Schmillen, of Cherokee County and President of the Board, in expressing hope and confidence that this large scale venture will help bring sufficient cheap power to meet the constantly expanding needs of the rural electric users of this area.

Norka Theatre Features For The Coming Week

Notice!

Free passes to Norkal Look up our weekly ad in this paper for details.—Norka Management.

As entertainment for patrons during the ensuing week, the Norka Theatre will provide a western drama and a musical.

On Friday and Saturday evenings, July 24 and 25, there is offered a western drama, in technicolor, entitled, "Last of the Comanches," an Indian fighting story that is different, studded with suspense, in the southwestern desert, directed and acted to hold the breathless attention of action fans. In the plot, Black Cloud and his Comanche Indians wipe out everyone at Dry Buttes save six soldiers who come upon a stagecoach containing Barbara Hale and a liquor dealer. They fight off an Indian attack and finally take refuge in an abandoned half-destroyed fort where a trickle of water is found in a deep well. Black Cloud and his braves attack while Sergeant Broderick Crawford, in command, sends Indian boy (Johnny Stewart) to the nearest fort for help which arrives in the nick of time. The Indians are finished off.

Film fare for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday evenings, July 26, 27 and 28, will be a musical, in technicolor, entitled, "Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder." On a par with many a more costly musical, this latest Frankie-Laine-Billy Daniels effort is an entertaining Technicolor film. Nine musical numbers have been incorporated into its seventy-nine minutes of running time. Six old nostalgic ones like the title song, plus "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams, Ain't Misbehavin'" and three new and very catchy tunes. Production-wise, Jonie Taps has given the picture more talent than its predecessors, for besides the excellent Laine and the unusual Daniels voice, there is newcomer Charlotte Austin—a girl with looks, acting ability and a distinctive singing style. There are also several fine dance sequences and a splendid cast of straight players. Among them are Arthur Franz, who is beginning to make his mark in the film world, and old-timers Ida Moore and Lloyd Corrigan. The familiar Cinderella plot, under Richard Quine's able direction, has warmth and imagination, with so much music spotted throughout, that one gets the maximum in diverting entertainment.

Following the ceremony a three course dinner was served at the home of the bride's father, for the immediate family. A three tiered wedding cake decorated in pink and white centered the table. Lighted tapers and cut flowers completed the decorations.
